

Trinity appoints new Headmaster

The Governors are pleased to announce the appointment of Mr Lawrence Coen as Head of Trinity School, with effect from 1 September 2016. Chairman of Governors, Mr Simon Brookman, brought us the news after a demanding 3 day selection programme which saw six exceptional candidates being invited for interview and assessment. As Mr Brookman explained, "all the candidates showed particular qualities and strengths that would have been of enormous benefit to the School in this post. After extensive deliberations the Governors were of the view that Mr Coen offered the combination of skills and experience that the School needs."

The appointment follows last term's news that our present Head, Mr Tim Waters, is moving on to take up a headship at Sherborne International School with effect from the next school year. Mr Coen has been Deputy Head at Trinity since September 2013. A delighted Mr Coen is already looking forward to the challenge of taking Trinity forward into a new era, particularly as his appointment coincides with Trinity's recognition by the Good Schools Guide.

Mr Coen joined the School in 2005 with his wife Natalie who teaches Food Technology in the Senior Department. After joining us as a residential boarding tutor and Science teacher he has remained committed to all aspects of School life since, including being Director of Sport and Deputy Head of Sixth Form. He was appointed Senior Tutor (Pastoral) in September 2009 and Senior Deputy Head in September 2013. Mr and Mrs Coen currently have three children in the Preparatory Department with their eldest Benjamin, moving up to Year 7 in September 2016.

Lawrence and Natalie will be inviting Trinitonians old and new to join them for refreshments at the Trinity stand (Row 1 Stand 80) at the Devon County Show on Friday 20th May at 5.30pm.

Trip of a lifetime for our CCF as RNAS helicopter calls in to say 'goodbye'

It was 15 minutes in the air, but for most it was the trip of a lifetime. 60 lucky cadets and 4 staff from Trinity were treated to short trips over Teignmouth and Dawlish in a former Royal Navy Search and Rescue helicopter, which had called in on our thriving Combined Cadet Force.

771 NAS based at RNAS Culdrose was the Search and Rescue Helicopter Squadron up to a few weeks ago, but their role has now been taken over by HM Coastguard. As of March this year the squadron no longer exists, nor will their famous old red and grey helicopters, which have been in service around the South West of England since the early 1970's.

Leader of our CCF contingent, Lt Cdr (CCF) Geraldine Poulet-Bowden RNR, explains : "As a CCF Contingent we are very lucky to have close ties with RNAS Culdrose and at the suggestion of one of our pilot friends, Lt Cdr Mike Luscombe, we submitted a cheeky request to be considered for a 771 NAS farewell visit - after all a 771 helicopter visited Trinity as recently as September 2015. But we knew that this would be an amazing one-off opportunity and it would give our CCF cadets such an exciting experience!"

And so it turned out. A rare day of glorious sunshine and clear skies meant that our young people were able to benefit from benign flying conditions and superb views. Non-CCF pupils, including those from Nursery, Prep and Senior departments were able to view the inside of the helicopter as it was stationary on the school pitch over lunchtime. It was a fantastic experience for all - the day could not have gone better - and we would like to record our thanks for the tolerance shown by local residents whose peace may have been disturbed for a couple of hours.

Pupils thrilled at visit by famous rescue 'chopper'

The Sea King helicopter 771 NAS which called in on Trinity had been helping people in difficulty on land and at sea for many years. One of its most famous incidents was the Boscastle flood of 2004 when pictures of 771 staging dramatic rescues were shown all around the world.

The fact that this took place before many of our pupils were born, and beyond the memory of most of the others, did not prevent them from appreciating this unique occasion. MF

ccf inspired

It was a proud moment for 23 year old former Trinity student Kim Webber Marks and her family when she passed out at Pirbright Army Training Centre.

The Army's Phase 1 training regime is necessarily tough and arduous (17 hour days!). Of the 48 women who started, only 24 actually completed the course; in addition they had to deal with the trauma of the death of one recruit at the start of training.

Deputy Head, Lawrence Coen, was equally proud, having been invited by Kim to attend the ceremony. He recalls that she was an amazing student. "During her final year at Trinity, Kim applied to study Sport at University in Aberystwyth, and she was given an offer of a place," says Mr Coen. "But when the university later reviewed her astonishing personal statement they were so impressed that they instantly dropped the grade requirement, the only time I have ever seen this happen. The University were absolutely right: Kim actually achieved a score of 98% in her A level PE."

At the ceremony Kim also won an award for 'Best Physical Training Cadet', which came as no surprise. Kim had been awarded an Army scholarship for her sport, mainly swimming and triathlon. She is now in Yorkshire doing her vehicle handling training before moving to Brize Norton as part of the Air Dispatch Corps.

14 years of success!

Another year already and unbelievably the 14th exhibition that Trinity School has hosted for the South West ISA annual Art competition.

A very healthy turn out of schools attended with some welcome new faces keen to participate. As always, the work was of an extremely high standard and very noticeable this year was the huge increase of 3 dimensional works on show.

I am very glad to say that despite the squeeze on the Arts, evident in the wider world of education, we are still promoting the importance of this subject area where students are able to express themselves in a manner that is so relevant to the image-based world in which they exist. I am very pleased to say that once again Trinity students excelled. As a school we achieved 14 first placements, 8 second places and 4 highly commended.

All of the first placed art work will be exhibited at the National Conference held in November at a venue yet to be confirmed.

My hearty congratulations to all who exhibited and my grateful thanks to all who contributed to making the day such a great success. PC

Bake and decorate a cake to celebrate the Queen's 90th Birthday and win points for your house!

Mrs. Coen is searching for a baking king or queen. To enter the competition students will need to bake and decorate a cake or cupcakes to celebrate the Queen's 90TH Birthday.

This competition is open to the whole school and staff! There will be house points awarded and also prizes given to the best cakes.

You can enter as a team or individually.

There are plenty of design ideas on the internet if you search for Queens Birthday Cake Ideas on google images. Please bring your cake into school on Thursday 21st April.

The judging will take place in the Refectory on Friday 22nd April. You will be able to take your cake home to eat over the weekend.

If you have any further questions speak to Mrs Coen.
HAPPY BAKING!

artistic talent

Following Burns Night celebrations and designing our own Trinity tartan in Nursery, St Patrick and St David's days brought even more excitement. The children's activities created a wonderful wall display with quotes from many of them describing what they could remember about the special days.

Trinity Giving

Every year, students in Year 9 take part in the Giving Nations Challenge week. This is a financially supported, active personal development programme that aims to boost learning about charities, social enterprises and individual giving whilst developing pupils' leadership skills and sense of responsibility. The focus for this year was volunteering; the aim to deepen the students' understanding of the work volunteers do and why it is such an important aspect of charity across our community.

The pupils had a very active week! They built the set for Joseph – our own Trinity community and helped to run the Pow Wow Café in Kingswood – supporting the work of Mars Church. A day was spent sorting a mountain of donations made to CR2EE and we were extremely pleased to leave behind only a small hillock. On Thursday they ran a Messy Party at St Michael's Church – including face painting, party foods and iced biscuits. On the final day of the week the pupils sold homemade pizza to fund the week's activities. Trinity pupils often make us proud and Hugh Scudder from CR2EE words summarised Mrs Davis' feelings,

"All the children were a credit to your school and to their parents and I would be grateful if you will please convey my thanks to all of them for all their hard work." GD

"These events were inspiring examples of how Trinity can work effectively in partnership with the local churches in order to reach out to the local community. The pupils learnt a great deal from their experiences and the community benefited in a variety of ways." Revd Jonathon RM

Making music at Alice Cross Centre

Prep Chamber Choir were invited to sing Christmas Carols at the Alice Cross Centre in Teignmouth for their 'Drive and Dine' Christmas event. Lots of guests had come to enjoy a Christmas lunch and then to hear the choir sing some well known Carols.

The choir sang beautifully and confidently and the lunch guests really enjoyed it. Comments included "Beautiful - well behaved children with such a glow when performing" and "It made my day to see such a performance." The choir was led by Mr Birt with great enthusiasm and flair and Ms Robbins accompanied brilliantly on the piano. A huge well done to everyone involved. The children very much enjoyed the experience and the Alice Cross Centre have already asked that we visit them again sometime soon! Revd JRM

HOT OFF THE PRESS: May 3rd is the new date in the diary!

Lenten Digital Detox

This Lent the Senior and Prep departments were invited by Revd Jonathon to take up the challenge of a 'Digital Detox.'

For the Prep department this meant choosing a weekly challenge in the place of normal 'screen time.' The weekly challenges included writing a postcard or letter to someone, calling a family member for a conversation, playing a board game with your family, sitting down for a family meal together to talk about the day and arranging to meet up with a friend or family member you hadn't seen for a while. For the Senior department the challenge was to hand in mobile phones for one school day in the first week of the challenge then two school days for the second week and so on in the run up to Easter. For pupils who were able to hand in their phones they were invited to play board games in the Salle at lunchtime.

Revd Jonathon commenting on this initiative said "I was delighted that the idea was embraced by both the Prep and Senior departments. On the first day we had about 100 mobile phones handed in at the Senior School and many of the pupils were able to reflect that they had valued the experience because they had talked to each other more during the day. Equally the Prep department through their Lent wall display were able to show all of the various challenges they had completed each week. It was tremendous to see! Lent as a season is all about getting connected – to each other, to ourselves and to God. That was really at the heart of the Digital Detox initiative."

HCPT is a Catholic charity which has organised Easter pilgrimage holidays to Lourdes for the past 60 years. They have made contact with Trinity as they are now planning their Easter 2017 Lourdes trip. Could you be interested in this? For more information see their excellent website at <http://www.hcpt.org.uk/>

HCPT are looking for pupils of about 15 years old and upwards to create a core group of young musicians, singers and dancers to help animate the liturgies that play a central part in the pilgrimage. At other times pupils may be able to serve as helpers in the various groups of the Westcountry Region, but the intention is that – whatever part they play - they should enjoy a fulfilling, educational and very probably life-changing week.

There will be an HCPT Mass celebrated at Plymouth Cathedral on July 2nd in preparation for this pilgrimage. All Trinitonians are warmly welcomed to this special event.

Term ended with the awards of 'Real Easter Eggs' to pupils and staff for their random acts of kindness - included in this picture are some of those who committed so brilliantly to Lent this year.

Rock Solid Challenge

The Trinity way is that we love challenges, which is what we got when we entered Rock Solid; a race in which there are various obstacles that challenge us physically and mentally. The 10km challenge chilled us to the bone, as we became wet and muddy very quickly. The muddiest we became was at the Muddy Dunk, where we walked along the pole, looking down at into a ditch filled with the stickiest, coldest and most stinking mud we had ever seen. We then had to duck under the pole whilst a photographer snapped our glorious reactions. The hardest element was the Gun Show. We were dripping wet, freezing cold, with numb hands and then had to haul ourselves to the top of the obstacle - the Gun Show itself. It took strong arms, abs and back muscles as well as great balance to get to the top of the obstacle only to then slide back down to the icy water below. It was all worth it though, as at the Wall of Glory we climbed to the finish line, which was the best feeling ever as it was finally over!

Trinity pupils from 6 years old to Sixth Formers flew the flag for the intrepid people Trinitonians are! OH, PI, TW

U16 ISA National Rugby 7s Finals

The team were in a tough pool and only managed to get a draw in one game, losing the others. Having thought initially that they would be in the Vase competition, when another team withdrew, they were moved to the Plate, playing teams who should technically have been much better than them. In the Plate Quarter final they beat Stoke by one try and then comprehensively beat Thorpe Hall in the semi-final. In horrendous conditions the Plate final was moved into the stadium in front of a good crowd. However, injuries began to take their toll. Despite a battling performance the team eventually lost the final by one try to Rushmoor. An excellent effort all round and a good reminder to everyone that you really never know just how much you can achieve until you really push yourself. RL

U11 Devon Hockey Champions again!

On Thursday 17th March, the Under 11 Mixed Hockey Team played in the Devon Schools Hockey Tournament. All the players gelled very quickly and soon started playing some excellent hockey. The team looked solid at the back with Benjamin Coen, Harry Waggett, Pheobe Armes and super sub, Victoria Syms covering right across the pitch. Harry and Victoria both making exceptional tackles in the semi-final and final to stop the opposition from scoring. Grace Williams and Morgan Couch worked tirelessly in midfield and Evie Lewis displaying plenty of flair up front. Special mention must be made to Benjamin Coen who, as ever, displayed outstanding leadership qualities. SF sporting trinity

From gold winning performances in the Olympic Pool to national finals in cross country and football, pupils throughout the Prep and Senior Departments have represented our school with pride - CONGRATULATIONS!

The U18 Netball team played in the ISA netball nationals at the beginning of March. The girls showed true perseverance and confidence in all their matches whether they were winning or losing. The results were a mixture of wins and losses but overall the girls played some excellent netball and were a real asset to the school across the whole weekend. The team are pictured below with Eboni Beckford- Chambers, current England star. HF

Go, Go, Go Joseph!

Over fifty children from Year 6 to Year 13 were involved in this year's whole school musical 'Joseph and his Amazing Technicolor Dream coat'. This colourful production took place over three nights in February and performed to sold out audiences every night. All the students worked extremely hard to put this production together and Mrs Cooke and Mrs Arkell are bursting with pride with what they have achieved. FC

Parents and pupils were blown away by the quality of the performance, with many pupils already looking forward to next year's auditions. The staff are pretty sure however, that no one can fill those boots like Elvis can! We'll leave the limelight to Mr Larkman.

“Oh no they didn’t - Oh yes they did!”

Following on from a fantastic trip to see “Sleeping Beauty” at Bristol Old Vic the Year 7 and 8 pupils have spent the term in Drama preparing for their own performances of different pantomimes. Year 7 performed Sleeping Beauty and Cinderella with some very suspect Dames in the cast! As an added bonus to the performance, Loui Donaldson and Will Marke already have their outfits now for their Year 11 Prom. Year 8 gave equally strong performances of two classics – Jack and the Beanstalk and Snow White. The pantomime cow made a strong entrance with Adam Furneaux at the rear and Ben White a very believable front end. Prep 5 were able to watch the performances and see what they will aspire to in the future – I am sure there are some perfect characters in Year 5 for the starring roles in the future! GD

Year 9 have been busy this term studying promenade theatre. As part of this project the students had to devise a Ghost walk around the grounds of the school. The students performed this on the early evening of Monday 21st March in front of an audience from the boarding community. It was truly atmospheric, imaginative and spooky to say the least!

Maths medals in EVERY colour!

Following the success of our Senior Maths Challenge in November, our GCSE students have demonstrated outstanding problem solving skills in the Intermediate Maths Challenge and they have achieved the best ever results in this competition for Trinity School.

We are very excited to celebrate the success of our participants from Year 10 and 11 in this challenge; 16 out of 30 students have achieved a certificate. Four of our most talented mathematicians were invited to take part in the next round at the Pink Kangaroo Competition on 17th March, where they joined around 5500 pupils from 50 countries throughout the world. This is undoubtedly an exciting moment for the Mathematics Department and we are very proud and honoured to have a group of keen and gifted students in our school. Our mathematicians have shown independence and resilience throughout the years and it is amazing to see their confidence grow. We are hoping that they will now take their skills to the next level of their education. MH

Poets' Corner

Trinity School Key Stage Three pupils took half of the eight prizes in the Teignmouth Poetry Festival poetry treasure hunt competition. Years Seven and Eight enjoyed a morning searching for words hidden in town centre shop windows. Back at school, their challenge was to make up a poem included some of the words they had found.

At the T.A.A.G. centre in Teignmouth, poet Graham Burchell awarded Danielle Roberts in Year Eight her runner-up prize in the eleven and over category for her funny yet sad poem about a pet. Megan Allsop, Danielle Mountford and Scarlett Johnstone were all awarded highly commended prizes for their detailed and lively work. JP

Jewel and Me by Danielle Roberts

To home I skipped having been to the gym.
In through the door and all's looking grim.
What can it be? I thought with dread.
Mum softly said, poor Jewel is dead.
She was naughty but fun.
She was always the one.
I remember the time
She came home covered in grime.
Another was when she got stuck in a tree.
A ladder and broom, that was the key.
She was always a glowing light to me.
Can she be replaced, we'll wait and see.

Science Club Investigates!

This term has seen a new group of Year 5&6 budding scientists join Mr Jones and me, by popular demand, following our launch of a joint Prep and Key Stage 3 Science Club in the autumn. We started the term by creating 'fizzy rockets' (out of film canisters and vitamin C tablets) and seeing which reached the highest point in the science quad. The best went up two storeys high, much to the delight of the winning team! The emphasis has been very much on having fun with science. Students have been encouraged to test out their own ideas. For example they have designed their own balloon powered rockets, cars and hovercrafts and made bridges out of spaghetti (uncooked!). We celebrated Science Week with a demonstration of the classic 'Screaming Jelly Baby' experiment. The Club have also had the chance to see the fascinating organisms that live in Mr Jones' pond using the Senior School's new binocular microscopes. For the last session they made different types of paper aircraft and got out the microscopes again to examine a beautiful piece of quartz found in the Prep playground. Our thanks go to Amelie Cheeseman and Lucy Davis from Year 7, Science Club members from last term, who have helped us out this term. BT

beyond the classroom

From Nursery to Sixth Form, learning at Trinity takes place in and out of classrooms. The Forest School in the school grounds is used week in, week out by day and boarding pupils and we can never miss the opportunity to enjoy learning at the beach!

Over the years we have been lucky to have a wealth of talent visit our pupils from our parent body. The programme of external speakers has been enlivening to the pupils curriculum. Recently we were treated to a fantastic talk from ex-pupil David Wilton who left Trinity and joined the British Army Royal Military Police. He has since gone onto plan security for the Olympic Park and Formula E racing world championships. This really opened the eyes of our sixth form pupils to the opportunities that are available after life at Trinity.

Another key tool to making Business Studies come alive has been our use of local businesses and the trips we organise. On 1st March, pupils from Years 11-13 visited Wiseman Muller Dairies in Bridgwater. This was a fantastic trip which inspired learning about the topic of 'Operation Management', a notoriously difficult one to deliver in the classroom.

A true role model

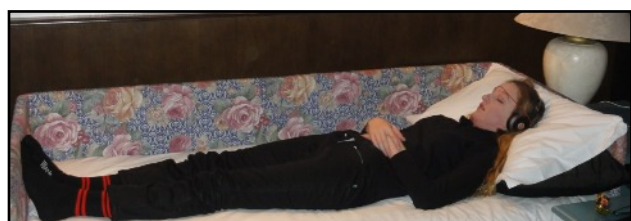

A Trinity School Sixth Former has chosen a novel way to raise funds for 2 international charities. 16 year old Marie-Claire Bell from Teignmouth, known to all as just 'M-C', decided to dedicate her recent ski holiday in Italy to the goal of covering 200 miles of downhill in 10 consecutive days.

Her aim was to use the achievement to raise money and awareness to support the work of 2 charities that work with people in deprived communities in South Africa.

To achieve her goal required not only considerable dedication and tenacity, but real determination. She was up most mornings at 7am to do 1 1/2 hours of homework before she took to the slopes, sometimes on her own, to make sure she got her daily mileage in. As her father Dennis Bell explains, "M-C often skied through lunch time, and almost every day continued skiing when most of our party came off the mountain. The icy snow conditions added to the challenge, with quite a lot of people getting injured or having bad falls, including myself. When I was skiing with M-C on her last day, just 5 miles short of her 200 mile target, I fell and broke a couple of ribs. An exhausted M-C managed to get me off the mountain before continuing on her own to complete 200.1 miles in total. Her mum, Tracie and I are so proud of M-C and her amazing achievement, and hope that this will be the start of her being involved with helping others as she grows up".

Head of Trinity Sixth Form, Mr Mark Acher, was equally impressed. "Completing this challenge puts M-C up there with the Heroes of Telemark! She is a young lady who surprises and delivers again and again. The money raised goes towards Huckleberry Foundation and The Calabash Trust, two charities that work in deprived areas of South Africa, and that students at Trinity School have been supporting for a number of years. M-C's target is to raise £500, a sum that will make a real difference in the townships."

Nursery learn about life in the Police Force

This included an opportunity to talk to Liz Francis our local PCSO and even try her hat on for size!

Prefects' Dinner 2016

Tuesday 22nd March saw the annual Formal Dinner hosted by the Headmaster in honour of our Upper Sixth Prefects who have completed their term in office. The evening started with a champagne reception followed by a 3 course waiter service dinner and concluded with an address by a guest speaker who each year shares their leadership experience with the Prefects. This year we were lucky enough to be joined by Mr James Cassidy, a former Artillery Officer who served with the Paras and Commandos and gained wide ranging operational experience, culminating with a tour of Afghanistan in 2006. Since leaving the armed forces, he has set up his own business which develops leadership, strategic and operational resilience in major organisations. Mr Cassidy's speech on moral courage hit home with the audience of Prefects and staff, reminding us about the challenges that leadership offers. The evening was a wonderful celebration of the achievements of the Prefect team; their ideas, commitment to their roles and their voluntary service to our School community. Mr Cassidy reflected afterwards with the following in an email:

What a fantastic, polite, and thoroughly enjoyable set of Prefects you have, who to a person are a credit to Trinity School and your input as mentors and teachers. I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed the conversations around the table during each course and how well I was looked after. What a rare privilege it is for someone such as me, who is focused on business and wider world issues to be delivered the opportunity to engage with such erudite ladies and gentlemen. They are clearly enthused and geared for a thoroughly exciting future journey. You have every right to be proud of them and in equal measure of what you do.

Young Enterprise show us the future!

This year Trinity School's Young Enterprise team are called 'Rework' and operate on the philosophy of 'making something new from something old'. On Saturday 5th March the enterprising Year 12 pupils participated in the Devon County Young Enterprise Trade Fair at Darts Farm. The pupils demonstrated fantastic teamwork and acute business acumen in showcasing their upcycled products. The team were awarded second place in this interim event, which is a positive motivator in preparing for the final event which is taking place at The Met Office in Exeter on 3rd May. The managers at Darts Farm were extremely complimentary of the pupils business model and their branding ideas, which they likened to Apple! Emilie Cole was singled out as being the most self-assured salesperson on the day, but everybody played their part in all aspects of the business operations. An exciting conclusion to the day was that Darts Farm have agreed to stock 'Rework's' bike chain keyrings, so keep your eyes open for them in a store near you soon! MM fun and fund raising

Following a successful cheese and wine evening in March a new PTA committee has been formed, with 2 vice chairs, Shona English and Lisa Stroud and a number of new committee members. The committee are currently planning future events with updates available on the Trinity PTA Facebook page. The Committee would like to thank Lynne Seager and Rachel Blake for all their hard work over the last 2 years running the PTA. The PTA have funded over £9000 worth of school play equipment for the Prep department with the school also contributing, this was installed in the Autumn and the children have been making good use of it even through the winter months.

The PTA organised a very enjoyable and successful Burns Night in January with over 60 people attending. Dinner was held in the Refectory, with guests enjoying Bagpipes and speeches before heading into the Salle for some Scottish dancing. Over £800 was raised for the PTA and thanks go to all those who helped organise the event. Finally could the PTA remind everyone of easyfundraising.org.uk, we received over £150 of funding following parents using this site when shopping online so please give it a go.

New faces

This year has seen a lot of decoration within MD Boys boarding to make the house feel a little more homely for boarders. Much of these ideas have come from the input of Mr and Mrs Milne as new houseparents. However, it has been great to see the pupils' influences coming into the house through the use of their Design and Technology work. Ku Tajima has produced a wonderfully crafted red and black chaise longue, which is now positioned in the common room and complements the new Beano theme superbly! Another creation which is well used by the pupils is a pool table created by Suang Tienjesadachai. This is a great focal point for the house and many competitive matches have taken place on it already. It is lovely to think that these creations will live at Trinity long after the pupils have left.
